Classic Cultured Pearls

I wore a strand of lovely uniform 9mm cultured pearls on my wedding day 30 years ago...along with a pair of drop cultured pearl earrings. They are such favorites of mine that I continue to wear on many occasions and still receive compliments! Such classics never go out of style.

Today cultured pearls come in many sizes, lengths, qualities, shapes and colors that some are nearly unrecognizable as pearls. The most popular are traditional rounds used in Start-Her-Pearl Necklaces® - purchased by the inch over a period of time. It makes a very affordable way to create a keepsake. Everyday someone calls and orders for a birthday or anniversary. Recently a longtime customer wanted to complete her necklace adding a diamond clasp.

Fashion has added variety with coin, keshi, and baroque pearls that when mixed with other gemstones of color can truly make a statement. While at the Chicago jewelry show earlier this month I purchased a long sautoir necklace consisting of bronze Tahitian baroque pearls alternating with reversible diamond stations. It is reminiscent of the 1920's but updated with pearls not available during that era. It can be worn long or doubled for a layered look.

A Tahitian natural black color cultured pearl necklace is showcased at Eichhorn Jewelry. It is the highlight of our collection and can be seen with overtones of pink, purple, and green overtones. Acquired over many years to complete the blending, the iridescence is spectacular!

Restyling existing necklaces is one of the many services we provide also. Not only will we professionally clean the pearls but will restring knotting between each.

Cultured pearls are specially priced the month of May. Stop in and see the huge selection ranging from under $10. to $25,000. Call 724-2621 or 1-800-589-2621 for an appointment. www.eichhornjewelry.com.
